
David Davies

Head of Leadership Development & Mentoring

Leading leaders to greatness.

A highly experienced and people focused development coach with a clear focus on enhancing the capability of leaders so that they can reach their true potential.

David's Expertise

David is the Head of Leadership Development and Mentoring at Lead Talent. A qualified coach and mental health first aider, he has spent over 21 years supporting and coaching individuals to reach their true potential through both operational and leadership roles. These roles have been across a number of businesses giving him a broad sector knowledge, ensuring that advice given, works for you.

He is invested in everyone he works in partnership with. The focus is always on recognising areas of development to build confidence and competence, so true leadership potential can be reached. Confidence is built by identifying vulnerabilities and offering practical tools to manage and build. Competence is developed by individual mentoring and small group courses all tailored to each candidates' specific needs, building knowledge and skill sets that can be applied in practical situations.

This genuine passion for supporting people's personal growth is proven to deliver direct positive impact on their career journey and consequently the organisations in which they work, through their enhanced leadership capabilities.

David's partnership led approach, energetic delivery style, practical tools and focused 121 mentoring has built a loyal client following and created transformational business results for over 20 years. At every stage David is focussed on elevating individuals to perform at their greatest level.

In our clients words:

"We have been working with David at Lead Talent for nearly 2 years where he has been providing 121 coaching for our Leaders across the UK. We chose to take a coaching approach to our Leader's development as we felt that this would help them in addressing their individual challenges by creating structured training and support that would help them move grow in their leadership roles. David's objective approach provides a positive challenge to our Leaders and helps them to think outside of their comfort zone. The coaching credit model is a truly tailored development approach and we have seen our Leaders become more focused, take more action and therefore achieve better results."
